Think-abouts:

- . Assume that text, graphics, video, sound and music are copyrighted.
- . Don't copy the source code, HTML, and frames codes to create your own website. They are creative works and may be copyrighted.
- . Don't copy logos or trademarks and make them a hyperlink. Use the words, not the logo.
- . Read the copyright statement on the web site. Some give permission to copy—like .gov sites.
- . Consider asking for permission to add a URL to a website P M H I J P $ I S O P N O (bandwidth issue).
- . Avoid deep linking to a website. It bypasses the homepage that may include important information.
- . Check that the information on the website was posted legally and that the web author has a right to give others permission to copy.
- . File sharing or K V ^ U S V H K $ U Z N made from unlawful copies probably violates copyright law.
- . Follow the guidelines for the licensed content for Iowa students and educators in the Digital Content section.
- . Check if the district has a policy on school-sponsored publications. It may include guidelines for posting information
